Accounting Standards- Theme of the Seminar

In India, the accounting profession is held in high esteem because of its significance and the relevance it holds in keeping the finances of the institution in good health in particular, the economy of the nation in general. Attesting this, the practicing of accounting profession is governed by the principles framed by Accounting Standards Board (ASB), a body which came into being in the year 1977. In order to regulate and fine tune the process in tune with the evolving times, accounting standards have been vetted; altered, corrected, even removed if need be from time to time by it. Hence, from academic standpoint, it becomes necessary to acquaint ourselves with the latest through some leading academicians and practicing industry personnel who might appraise the same in new perspective.
