About Raiganj University, West Bengal, India

The long-cherished dream of the people of Raiganj came true when Smt. Mamata Banerjee, the Hon'ble Chief Minister of West Bengal announced the transformation of this Raiganj College (University College) into a full-fledged University in the year 2015 with Prof. Anil Bhuimali as the first Vice – Chancellor of Raiganj University. We have hurriedly reformed our undergraduate syllabi and have started honours programme under semester system following CGPA Grade. Today, RGU has twenty one post-graduate departments. RGU has started M.Phil. and Ph.D. programs in17 departments. Today University has some of the unique and advance and non-traditional departments such as Computer & Information Sciences, Management, Sericulture, Microbiology, Statistics etc.

About PG Section, Department of CIS—

The related BCA Department has started its journey during the period of University College under NBU with BCA Program. Though in the year 2016 University planned to start a PG Program/ Department in the area of Computing & Informatics and as a result the Department of Computer and Information Science (CIS) has been established. The nomenclature of the Department 'CIS' has started to keep the expertise and academic affairs much broader and working and merging related subjects (such as Computing, Computer Science, Information Science, Informatics, IT, ICT and also other hand allied domain based IS/IT subjects e.g. Health Information Science, Quantum Information Science, Library Information Science, Geo Information Science). Moreover university has followed international and contemporary style of academic dealing and as a result MSc-Computer & Information Science program has been started from 2016. The main agenda of the Department (along with MSc-CIS products) is to produce not only scientific thoughts among its students but also prepare them for the industry and for that Applied curriculum has been adopted in the line of the universities, aboard. Hence the Department Of CIS is following the style of iSchools (that practiced globally, in recent past) academic attributes in their agenda for promoting interdisciplinary research and industrial products. In recent past Department also started its one of its kind and interdisciplinary program M.Phil. & Ph.D. in Computer and Information Science (CIS) with specialization in Business Informatics & Social Informatics.
